Many Cases—Few Failures, Many Cures.

Probably no other ailment has received as much attention from scientists as has Rheumatism. Thousands suffer from Rheumatism where other diseases can claim only hundreds.

It attacks the rich and the poor, the fat and the lean, the young and the old, the robust and the frail, the strong man and the weak woman.

Some cases baffle the skill of the most scientific practitioners. One treatment will cure four cases, and fail utterly on the fifth. No one can honestly promise that any one remedy will cure all cases of Rheumatism. In this store we have calls for and sell scores of remedies for Rheumatism. We have watched results in many cases and because of what we have seen them do we recommend DIKE'S RHEUMATIC COMPOUND for internal treatment and DIKE'S RHEUMATIC LINIMENT for temporary relief for the intense pain. Come here for all Dike Preparations.

OBITUARY.

Be still prepared for death and death or life shall thereby be the sweeter.—Shakespeare.

Mrs. Saline Ross, aged 52, died suddenly Thursday evening, Nov. 7, 1912, at 8:30, while on a visit at the home of Thomas Kavanaugh, a neighbor.

Mrs. Ross was born in the state of Ohio in 1861 and was one of a family of five boys and two girls. She came with her parents to Emmett township and settled on a farm 30 years ago. For several years she has lived with her orphan nephew, Thos. McGilvary. Now the boy will make his home with his uncle James Ross.

Solemn high mass was celebrated Monday morning at 10:30 in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel church at Emmett by Fr. Loughran, deacon, Fr. Slattery, of Detroit sub-deacon and Fr. Cullinane of Yale, celebrant.

Interment in Kenosha cemetery. A large congregation of relatives, friends and neighbors assembled at the services showing the high esteem in which deceased was held. Three brothers survive her, James of Emmett, William of Sand Point, Idaho, and Michael A. of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Taking for his text: "Be you then also ready for at what hour you think not the Son of Man will come", St. Luke 12:40, Fr. Cullinane preached a very appropriate and effective sermon. Appealing to the daily experience of his hearers he called attention to the fact that sudden deaths are not only not infrequent but of everyday occurrence. "Justly, indeed, does our Lord enjoin us to be always prepared." "Most wisely does He admonish us to hold ourselves in readiness for that dread moment." "God grant that none of us may stand at His tribunal with empty hands."

Speaking of the deceased he said: "She was on her way to spend an evening of recreation and pastime and had she lived would have been, with her calm and sober judgment, her kindly nature and cheerful disposition, the life and the pervading good will of the crowd that had gathered that evening for social diversion. But God chose to call her almost instantly upon that unpropitious occasion, in the midst of numerous friends and acquaintances whose only thought was for an evening of recreation and pleasure. Ordinarily only immediate relatives experience the sight and the knowledge, the pain and utter sadness that accompanies death. But in this instance it was not confined to relatives. It was the sight and knowledge and sorrow of a large community. The impression of her death was made and will be left upon many minds. May we not conclude that Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has chosen this extraordinary instance of death to be a warning and a sermon in itself, to you to be prepared for that inevitable hour."

Speaking of her life Fr. Cullinane said that, he voiced not only his own knowledge of her, but the greater knowledge of her friends and acquaintances and the community in which she lived. She was not only ever ready to engage in any good work but it was a part of her daily life to be engaged in some work of goodness, kindness and charity, and in this she had no line of demarcation. She exemplified true charity and true christianity; for it was not bounded by creed or nationality. She was a true friend and neighbor to all. She was kind and ever helpful to the poor and a friend and guardian to the orphan; and the cheerfulness and goodness of her character were diffused over the community in which she lived, as likewise over her wide acquaintance.

She was faithful to her religious duties and to her church, and though God called her suddenly we may feel assured that when she appeared before her Judge she was not found empty handed.

Fr. Cullinane concluded with an exhortation to those present to be moved by the example of her life, and ended with the quotation of his text, "Be you then also ready for at what hour you think not the Son of Man will come."

CARD OF THANKS.

The brothers of Miss Saline Ross desire to return their heartfelt appreciation of the many kindnesses shown them by friends and neighbors in their hour of bereavement.

Entre-nous Club.

A number of the ladies of Yale met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Learmont on Monday evening and organized a social club to be known as the Entre-nous club with meetings to be held every two weeks at the homes of the members during the winter months, the first meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. N. B. Herbert on Tuesday, November 19th.

The following officers were chosen for the coming year:—
President—Mrs. W. H. Learmont
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Geo. McIntyre
Sec. Treas.—Mrs. J. B. Paisley

Christmas Bazaar.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are preparing for a church fair to be held the second week in December.

It will be almost strictly a fancy work fair, it being the object of the ladies to have a large number of articles suitable for Christmas gifts and at reasonable prices, so that it will be an easy matter for the busy woman to secure presents for family, relatives and friends.

Don't forget the church fair and if anyone wishes to place an order for a certain article to be made, advise the president Mrs. James Wallace.
